

Chase Browning

National Fire Sprinkler Association (NFSA)

Chase Browning is the National Training Manager for the National Fire Sprinkler Association (NFSA), where he oversees the in-person training deliveries around the country and assists with codes and standards development. Prior to joining the NFSA, Chase served as the Fire Marshal for the City of Medford, Oregon, where he managed a progressive Fire & Life Safety Division. Chase also has prior experience as a sprinkler contractor, and has served on a variety of technical committees, including the International Fire Code Interpretation Committee, NFPA 13, 13D, 13R, 25, 200 and more.

With a lifelong passion for fire protection, Chase brings a unique balance of hands-on experience in the industry, and jurisdictional experience as a code official. Chase has a passion for teaching, with experience developing content and instructing a wide range of audiences on a variety of fire-protection and code-related topics.
